Retention Packaging

A packaging system that can be just as varied as your products themselves.

This flexible systems is compact and holds your products firmly in position during transit. With this process, our retention packaging combines the good properties of product cushioning and product holding.

Retention packaging can individually adapt to even the most varied product contours. Due to the "suspended delivery", there is a very high degree of protection against shocks and vibrations.

Thanks to the innovative construction, you only need one inner section (standard systems usually require 2-3 parts) and the packaging time is considerably reduced.

By using this process, differing product dimensions can be sent in the same packaging without the need for extra materials.

No time-consuming folding as in previous systems is required here. Your product is quickly and simply packaged so that it is ready for sending.

Reduce your storage volumes as far fewer packaging sizes are needed.

This new system means that you can benefit from an environmentally friendly and reusable packaging system and make a contribution to the environment. The carbon footprint is considerably less than in the case of standard packaging (e.g. foam, bubblewrap and similar protective products) and the used packaging can be fed unseparated into the waste cardboard cycle.

Perfect for mailing
laptops, tablets,
e-books, etc.,
in optimum
condition

Suspension Packaging

The highly flexible but practically tear-free stretch film clings perfectly to the different product contours. Clamping between two suspension cushions means that the product will be stored as if it was "floating on air" during the transport. Even if the box is dropped on its side walls the product will remain in position.

- High-level protection for fragile products against shock and vibration
- Products are transported as if they were "floating on air"
- Easy handling and fast packing
- Storage space reduction compared with foam solutions
- Reduction of process costs (procurement, storing, shipment)
- Reusable
- Environment-friendly, can be disposed of with waste cardboard
- Professional appearance

Our Suspension packaging adapts optimally to the most varied product contours like a second skin. New product lines from your company can often be packed immediately with existing packaging sizes due to the generic design of our stock range.

With our accessory compartment innovation product accessories can be packed securely in accessory compartments. Whether it's a manual, cables or remote controls, everything is securely fixed in position.

We also offer special packaging ideas and new developments according to your individual needs and particular product design.
